Ministry for Peace in Australia

Representatives from 40 countries will be in Sydney for the 4th Global Summit for Ministries and Departments of Peace in September, part of the global International Day of Peace activities.

What's the International Day of Peace (IDP)?

First established in 1981, the UN set the IDP to the fixed date of 21 September in 2001. Since then recognition and support for the day has grown enormously, with commemorations being held at individual, community and government levels all around the world. This year the UN Secretary General is calling for us all, "We the Peoples" to get involved in a 100 day countdown until September 21. (See below)

An International Day of Peace Alliance meeting will follow the presentation, please RSVP to secretary@idpa.org.au by June 19 (for catering purposes)
